Labor Day Celebration to Net $1000

ALL ASHORE THAT'S GOING ASHORE . . . Unification might still be just a controversial theory in the upper echelons of the armed forces, but it was much more than that at Norfolk, Va., when the army, navy, marines and air force combined in a combat landing operation based on the bitter lessons learned on shores of Europe and the Pacific. It was "Operation Camilla" (for West Point cadets and Annapolis midshipmen.) Landing craft are lined up on the beach and spilling their loads of navy midshipmen who are beginning to learn first hand what ground troops are up against when they undertake an invasion of a strongly defended enemy coast.

Xenia Twp. To Ask Bonds For Fire Truck

Xenia township voters will be asked Nov. 2 to approve a $37,000 bond issue for fire-fighting purposes.

L. S. Barnes, Xenia, clerk of the trustee board, said the resolution calling for the bond issue to go on the ballot was to be filed Friday with the county election board.

A breakdown of the figure showed $10,000 for each of two trucks and $17,000 to purchase two lots and build two structures in which to house the township apparatus.

Meanwhile, a committee of township trustees and citizens is continuing a study for locating the two fire houses. A study of township population is under way to determine the best probable location of fire houses, making accessible fire-fighting apparatus to most populated areas.

The committee conducting the survey consists of Trustees Jacob Harner, Walter Hartman; Emory Beal, and three residents, Walter Nash, Paul Baughn, and James H. Hawkins.

Youths Arrested After 'Ride'

Four youths were being held by Sheriff Walton Spahr in county jail Monday morning after a ghoulish prank Saturday night backfired.

The teen-agers, all from Jamestown, allegedly took an older man, Marcus Williamson, 43, Jamestown, "for a ride" in the Jamestown cemetery, removed all his clothing and then forced him out of their car.

After remaining in the cemetery for some time, the "victim" walked into Jamestown and barrowed a pair of overalls from a sympathetic friend.

Later he reported the incident to the sheriff's office.

John W. McCoy Passes Away at Springfield Friday

John William McCoy, 71, a retired barber, died at 2:15 p. m. Friday in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Robert Hays, Springfield, where he resided. He had been ill only three days.

A lifelong resident of Clark county, Mr. McCoy was the son of Newton E. and Mary Jane McCoy. Formerly of Cedarville, where he practiced barbering, Mr. McCoy had lived in Springfield the last ten years.

He was a member of the Methodist church of Cedarville.

Besides the widow, Blanche, he is survived by Mrs. Hays, a son, Gilbert, of Springfield; a sister, Mrs. Osa Shalkford, of Clinton, Mich., and nine grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Sales Tax Is Not Dropping In County

Greene county was not among the nine Ohio counties in which sales tax collections were below the 1947 level in the third week in August, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported.

Although the total state revenue from this source still showed an increase, the collections, based on the sale of prepaid tax stamps, were down in Allen, Brown, Henry, Huron, Jackson, Montgomery, Morrow, Pike and Scioto counties.

In Greene county the week netted $10,024.17 to boost the 1948 total to $343,153.98. The corresponding week a year ago produced $8,031.35 and the year's total then was $271,682.67.

A total of $2,307,987 was collected for the week ending Aug. 21, an increase of $42,424 over the same period of 1947. Total collections for this year from sales tax stamps reached $79,154,212 as compared with $67,370,206 at this time last year.

Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's administration in July induced the state legislature to amend the 3 per cent sales tax law to eliminate collection of the tax on items costing less than forty cents. This reduction is now being reflected in the sales tax revenue.

Main industries to reflect the lowering of the tax were food, men's clothing, gasoline stations, a number of accessories, chain store grocery, chain store varieties and mail orders, and drug stores.

In the food industry less prepaid stamps were needed by groceries, restaurants, bakeries, dairies, candy stores, farmers and other classifications. Restaurants bought $8,000,000 less worth of stamps during the week.

Several counties, although collections were not below the 1947 level were extremely close to the previous year's figure.

Deputies Are Named for Drivers Licenses

Ten deputy registrars have been named for Greene county by Edward T. Fogo, state registrar of motor vehicles, for the sale of 1949 driver's licenses. The sale began Tuesday.

The current 1948 licenses expire at midnight Sept. 30, and drivers must have the new permits in their possession when driving on Oct. 1 or thereafter. All ten local registrars are authorized to sell both operator and chauffeur permits.

Those named are Glen Deaton, Deaton Hardware Co., Yellow Springs; Edna Tate, Bellbrook; Mary G. Wallace, Bowersville; Mary Pickering, Cedarville; Dorothy Swadner, 20 East St., Fairfield; Nedra Harper, Jamestown; Harry Jackson, Knollwood Orville B. Armstrong, 234 Dayton Dr., Osborn; and Elizabeth Lanthorn, Spring Valley; Roy V. Hull Xenia.

File $100,000 Damage Suit In Clark Co.

Mrs. Celeste Garner, 28, of Cedarville, filed suit Saturday at Springfield for $100,000 damages against the Miami Valley Co-operative Milk Producers association of Dayton as the result of an automobile accident May 4.

Mrs. Garner claimed in her action that her "professional" career as a dancer and skater was ruined as a result of injuries suffered when her car collided with a truck operated by the milk producers association near Springfield. She claimed she suffered fractures of the right knee, three ribs and collar bone, face cuts and shock.

The suit was filed in Clark county common pleas court.

Mrs. Garner was identified as having been a USO entertainer during the war, performing in both the European and Pacific Theaters. Her husband, William Garner, also has been in the show business and at present is a theater manager.

County Sells Two Trucks

The sale of two trucks, a bulldozer, and auto and several other items by county commission Saturday afternoon at the county garage brought a total of $5,170 from high bidders.

Auctioned off by Joe Gordon, the bulldozer went to Ray Barnett for $1,970, while a 1942 Pontiac sedan formerly used by the sheriff's office brought $940.

Also auctioned were an Eagle dirt loader, ten tons of junk, a wooden truck bed, and a stair-case from the county infirmary.

Raymond G. Spahr, clerk of the county commission, was clerk for the auction sale.

Jackets to Open Grid Season on Tuesday at Xenia

The Cedarville college Yellow Jackets will open the 1948 college football season in the state of Ohio next Tuesday night at Cox field in Xenia, when they face the Polar Bears of Ohio Northern university.

Since returning to the grid wars during the 1946 season after a 14-year layoff, they lost to the Bears in the '46 lid-lifter by an 18-0 count on the "home" field at Xenia.

With a veteran squad, which has rounded into shape quickly, Mendell E. Beattie, Jacket athletic director and football coach, and his assistant, Don Barger, believe the team of this season will be better than that of last year, when they won three, lost three and tied two.

M V A Group Now in Session At Cedarville

Representatives of Ohio's growing and successful soil conservation movement are going to school this week through Friday, Sept. 10, at Cedarville college.

Sponsored by the Mississippi Valley association, the school for Ohio soil conservation district supervisors lists the entire "who's who" of soil saving in this section of the nation. Everett T. Winter, vice president of the Mississippi Valley association, came to Cedarville from Omaha, Neb., and was one of the principal speakers at the dinner session on Wednesday evening. In addition to his message, other speakers that evening were A. C. Ingersoll, Cincinnati, director of the Ohio division of the Mississippi Valley association, and John F. Cunningham, Springfield, former dean of the college of agriculture, Ohio State university, who is now connected with the Mississippi Valley association.

The supervisors and guests from other states were greeted by Dr. Ira D. Vayniger, president of Cedarville college, at the opening session and Kent Leavitt, president of National Federation of District Supervisors, spoke on "Why We Are Here," explaining the purposes of the school.

Clay Stackhouse, Wakeman, a member of the state board of agriculture and president of the Ohio Federation of District Supervisors, is active in the arrangements for the meeting. He will conduct the President's Hour on Friday morning, preceding the luncheon, which will close the meeting, at which Dean L. L. Rummell, of the college of agriculture, Ohio State university will speak.

Practical land uses will be discussed by many speakers, who will give to the supervisors first hand information on soil saving projects which have paid dividends. These will include "Blind Spots in Land Resource Research," an address by Garth Volk, of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster. Farmers will give stories of their own experiences in shifting their farm program to meet the standards of soil conservation.

Harry Culbreth, of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation, and Joseph W. Fichter, State Grange discussion on "Longtime Land master, will take part in a panel Policy—What Should It Be?" in which Kent Leavitt will discuss "Elemental Issues."

The soil conservation supervisors and their guests will take a number of tours, including one to the gorge near Clifton, Whitehall Terraces and Flatters' Pond, to the State Conservation Day and Plowing Matches in Urbana and to see a typical ditch project, which is a part of the Greene county soil conservation district.

Vice President Winter, of the Mississippi Valley association will be accompanied by Mrs. Winter, who will serve as one of the hostesses for the occasion.

Introduced by T. C. Kennard, of the Ohio Soil Conservation service, Dr. Garth Volk, of the Wooster Agriculture Experiment station, opened the third day of the Ohio soil conservation district supervisors' school with a talk on "Blind Spots in Land Resource Research."

Despite the fact that Ohio leads the nation in soil structure research and conservation land-use program, the surface has only been scratched, according to Volk. The $10,000 a year appropriated for soil survey work in Ohio is sufficient to almost cover one county annually, he said.

He stated that greatest amount of expenditure on the farm goes for mechanical preparation of the soil—tillage. On the other hand, he said, there is now less data available on tillage than on other farming methods and practices. Unfortunately, he continued, millions are being spent for cure and pennies for preventative measures.

The one big project of land research is to determine the relationship between soil fertility, crop quality, animal health and human well being, he concluded. Following Dr. Volk's talk, two Ohio farmers discussed shifts in their farm program. They were Russell Fairall, of Licking county, and Walter Feller, of Hancock county.

The 150 some "students" journeyed to Urbana, this afternoon, to observe the plowing matches being held there. Later, they visited the Greene county soil conservation district ditch project.

Tonight, they will be entertained for dinner by the Bowersville P. T. A.

Friday noon will close the school with a prophetic discussion by Dr. L. L. Rummell, dean of the Ohio State university school of agriculture, as he sees the future of soil conservation work in Ohio.

Although it was two windy for the balloon ascension, the Progressive club will net in excess of $1,000 for the Labor day celebration they sponsored, Monday, at the Community Recreation park, it was announced by Vincent Rigio and William Lister, co-chairmen for the day.

The feature event of the day, the balloon ascension, was unable to get aloft because the wind kept collapsing the huge bag as it was being filled.

In the other feature event of the day, the Cedarville Legion team had little trouble downing Camp Troy 6-2 in the baseball game.

The Hamilton high school tumbling team put on an interesting exhibition for the crowd and the Cedarville high school band played two concerts, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

One of the Hamilton high school members of the tumbling team was the only serious injury of the day. As he was alighting from the truck, he caught his ring on the bed of the vehicle and sustained a badly torn hand, which required several stitches to close.

Contests, including a sack race, egg throwing contest and a greased pig, together with a hobby show in the shelter house in the afternoon and a dance in the evening, and a horseshoe tournament and exhibition, were other attractions enjoyed by the patrons.

It was estimated that approximately 2,000 persons were in attendance during the day at the park.

A complete financial statement for the entire Labor day celebration will be published in the Herald as soon as it can be compiled by the finance committee for the day, Edwin Bull and Walter W. Boyer.

The co-chairmen wish to thank all those who helped in any way to make the day a success and Mr. Rigio also wishes to personally thank Lee Lynch and Walter Meyers for the effort they put forth in publishing the programs for the day.

J. L. Roberts Called by Death Last Tuesday

Born in Madison county, N. C., Nov. 8, 1898, he had lived in this vicinity about 38 years and was employed as an auto mechanic at Chenoweth Motor sales, Xenia.

He was the son of James W. and Dicy Franks Roberts. His father died last Aug. 4.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mae Hedges Roberts, three daughters, Mrs. Betty Batson, Xenia, Miss Dorothy Roberts, at home, and Miss Bertha Roberts; two sons, Kenneth and Donald at home; three sisters, Mrs. Martha Lumsford, Barnard, N. C., Mrs. Lydia Wiscup, Jamestown, and Mrs. Esther Payton, Xenia; and a brother, Luther, Xenia.

Services were held at the Need funeral home Xenia Friday at 1:30 p. m. with burial in Woodland cemetery.

SCHOOL AGAIN

Again the streets and the town are full of school children. One wonders where they all come from so suddenly at the ringing of the school bell. During vacation weeks the school house has even looked lonesome. Now it is teeming with children, from tots to tallish young men and women. You and I know nothing so important as our schools. The world outside America knows little of the freedom we have, and having had it always we're complacent about it. Nothing could be better than a thorough course in appreciation of America and its free institutions for everybody that goes to school.

THEY CARRY ON

The good folk of Grape Grove community, though inconvenienced by the burning of their church house, carry on with zeal, holding Sunday services in Ross Township school. It is a live congregation and the church building will be replaced in time by a much nicer one. They believe thoroughly in the institutional background that makes America unique in its freedoms—and in its successes.

AN AIR PILOT AT 14

A Greene county girl, 14-year-old Barbara Jean Wilson, has driven an airplane, solo, several times. She can not be given a pilot's license until she is a bit older. She laughs when she thinks that it will be three years before she is permitted to drive an automobile.

AND THEY MADE MONEY

Not only did our neighbor, Fayette county, have a good fair, as always, but the fair made a net profit of over $5,000, and that's a good week even for a village weekly newspaper!

THE RED HERRING

The president's jibe at congress for investigating red taint in high places back fired. He called the investigation a "red herring," to direct attention away from the job he had called congress to do. Now it develops that the "red herring" had turned out to be a whale, about to swallow the Jonah of the White House who called it a little herring!

A TICKLISH JOB

The administration has a ticklish job of both-shoulders water-carrying. It hawks about reducing the cost of living, but trembles at the thought of reducing prices to food producers. Well, suppose you explain how both can be done—reduce cost of food and retain high prices for food producers. You're good at things like that, you know.

HE'S AN ALLEY!

The president of the United States, returning from a conference at Teheran, spoke of Stalin as "out great democratic, Christian ally." As the dictator he is and always has been and always will be had his way at Teheran, at Yalta and no doubt had it in Moscow. He is a great ally, all right, but we have been spelling it wrong—there's an "e" in it; Stalin is a one-way alley.

SOME ROYALTY LEFT

Great Britain's Princess Margaret, 18 the other day, would become monarch in case of the death of both her father and her older sister, Elizabeth. The kickoff of her royal duties is to represent the empire at the coronation of Princess Juliana as queen of the Netherlands. We don't go in for the royal stuff, but how we do eat it up!

EXHIBITS A AND B

Those caustic Southerners who didn't want Hen Wallace to speak, or even to come to town, exhibited home products, eggs and tomatoes on his eastern front. Naughty, naughty!

Elevator Will Serve Many Uses on Farm

Conveyers Eliminate 'Back-Breaking' Chores

Elevators are becoming as common on farms as they are in city department stores. They are, however, of a different kind—and not used for the same purposes. Unless, of course, city stores have started conveying farm produce from the sidewalk into ninth or tenth story "mows."

Farmers began to think seriously about elevators and conveyers during the last war, and they've been doing something about them ever since. Many built their own equipment. Others bought commercial models. The source matters little—it's what they can do that counts most.

All-purpose elevators, either portable or stationary, are capable of elevating to desired heights baled, chopped or loose hay, ear corn, root crops, shelled corn, ground grain and forage. Chopped hay is being elevated in the accompanying illustration.

They do these "back-breaking" chores easily, and all day long without complaining. However, before you build or buy an elevator be sure you know for what it is to be used. That knowledge will determine the size and type best suited for your needs.

Costs of operation vary somewhat, but, in general, farmers can figure on it taking from 1/10 to five kilowatt hours of power to elevate 1,000 bushels of grain with an elevator, run by a five horsepower motor.

Small Farm Units Are Big Implement Buyers

Two-thirds of the one and one-half billion dollars being spent for agricultural implements this year is being expended for small one-family farms, according to a recent survey of the Anti-Friction Bearing Manufacturers association.

For the first time the small farm operator, who owns 6 per cent of the country's total farm acreage, will be the biggest customer for automatic labor-saving implements.

The low ebb of farm labor as well as the increase in farm savings has been responsible for the mechanization of the smaller farms.

One outstanding result is that by 1950, it is estimated that four million farms will produce 33 per cent more than the total production of six million farms before the war.

Plastic Lily Pond

Kerosene or plastic lily ponds make it possible for the farmer as well as the city dweller to have a lily pond without the expense of building a stone or concrete basin. The plastic pond may be emptied, folded up and brought indoors and stored during the winter months. The pond also may be used as a wading pool for children or as a duck pond.

Weevil Damage in Grain Traced to Unclean Bins

Prevention of weevil damage to the new crop is possible if the granary is cleaned and sprayed with DDT. Nearly all cases of "weevily" grain can be traced to unclean bins according to Purdue university entomologists. Any infestation which occurs likely will come from insects which remain from year to year in the grain and can be prevented by proper cleaning.

WIRE YOUR FARM FOR SUCCESS

Adequate Wiring Aids Profitable Farming, Successful Living...

To enjoy all the benefits of modern electrical living and electrical farming, you need Adequate Wiring. Bringing your farmstead up to 1948 Adequate Wiring standards is neither difficult nor expensive. Here are a few of the points to consider:

From the three-wire entrance service lines to the farthest outlet in house or farm building, be sure your electric wires are heavy enough to carry ample current capacity for your needs, present and future. Only with an adequate number of circuits and wires heavy enough can you guard against overloading and voltage drops that dim lights and reduce the efficiency of motors and appliances.

Plan to include enough heavy duty circuits and outlets for portable utility motors in granary, barn, repair shop or garage. It is a good idea to include several spare terminals for addition of more circuits as your future needs may require them.

Plenty of handy control switches make for safety as well as convenience. Switches that let you light your way ahead—in and out of house or farm buildings, up and down steps, about the yard and feed lot at chore time—save many a painful accident.

For practical suggestions on Adequate Wiring, consult your County Agriculture Agent, your Vocational Agriculture Instructor or the Farm Representative of the electric power and light company serving your neighborhood.

The Man for the Job

Lesson for September 12, 1948

HISTORY KNOWS some men only by their nicknames. Stalin is a nickname, so was Charlemagne. And so is Barnabas, one of the best of the early Christians.

The apostle nicknamed him "Barnabas" and the name stuck, for it means "Son of Encouragement," and Barnabas was encouraging people who badly needed it.

Barnabas was not a brilliant man, perhaps not even a strong one, though he had an impressive "front." On a journey in the back districts the natives would take him for Zeus, king of all the gods. But it was not his looks that were important, it was his big heart.

When Saul was converted, there was an awkward situation when that young convert went back to Jerusalem. The little society of Christians there knew Saul for a tiger. They had suffered at his hands, they had seen their friends dragged off by his henchmen. So when Saul showed up among the very people he had terrified, when he not only showed up but claimed to be one of them, no wonder they were frightened.

An Eye for God

AFTER THAT EXPERIENCE with Saul, Barnabas' friends came to think of him as a man who could probably see the good in any man or situation if there was any good to be seen. So when the headquarters church in old Jerusalem heard of a novel sort of church down in Antioch, they sent this "Son of Encouragement" down to see what went on. It was certainly no church on the Jerusalem pattern; was it a good one, or even a genuine church at all? Barnabas would know. And so he did.

Other men could see the large number of church members in Antioch; others could give you statistics about its rate of growth; others could tell you it was blessed; a daring experiment then as now. Some applauded, some raised their eyebrows.

But we read that Barnabas had eyes in his soul as well as in his head. What he saw, as he looked at that stirring new church with its new ways, was "the grace of God." All of us can see things on the surface, we can count noses, we can make reports for the papers. But seeing underneath, seeing the grace of God for the best of it—that is not so easy. Wanted for every church: A Barnabas!

Round Peg—Round Hole

WHEN BARNABAS had taken stock at Antioch he knew the place needed a man, and he knew the man for the place. Off he went across the Taurus mountains to Tarsus, where Saul was doing nothing particular, and he brought Saul to Tarsus and set him to work. Saul turned out to be, as Barnabas expected, the round peg for the round hole.

That team was a "natural"—but only Barnabas would have thought of it. Paul fitted in with the church too. A tireless worker, he was just the man for that vital growing congregation. Getting the right people for the right jobs is still one of the big problems of the Christian church. Many a Sunday School class, for instance, now is withering on the stalk, only because the Sunday school superintendent has never found the right teacher.

The Hands of the Church

THE TIME came when Barnabas and Saul were sent out by that same Antioch church to be the first foreign missionaries ever deliberately sent out by any Christian church. The hands of the church were laid on them before they left.

To this day, when a man is set apart, by ordination, for a particular work in the Christian church, hands are laid upon his head. This is more than an antique ceremony, there is more than magic in it.

The laying on of hands may mean different things to different churches, but this at least it always means: The men so ordained are now the hands of the churches they represent.

County Maps Are Available At Columbus

County maps, intended primarily for planning highways, help Ohio industry plan its operations. The Ohio development and publicity commission discovered this industrial asset in its survey of recent manufacturing developments in Ohio made at the request of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert.

These county maps were made by the Ohio highway planning survey, a section of the Ohio department of highways, for the use in studying traffic and planning road construction. They are on a scale of two miles to one inch. The price is ten cents a map or three for a quarter. Maps twice as large, scale one inch to the mile, will be printed, at a higher price, to individual order.

There is a map of each county, showing not only the roads but also each individual house in the rural areas. Thus any rural resident of Ohio can have a map that shows the location of all roads, creeks, towns and country houses in each of Ohio's 88 counties. Buildings are too numerous, of course, to show in the towns.

The size of a county map depends on the size of the county. On the scale two miles to an inch, a map is 18 inches to two feet on a side. The one-mile-to-the-inch maps are twice as large each way.

In the short time they have been available these convenient size county maps have been used increasingly by industries.

Telephone companies and electric utilities, both private and rural cooperatives, use them in planning their lines. City stores dispatch delivery trucks to points spotted on the map. Manufacturers can use them in locating transportation, railroad sidings, mines, quarries, and to the residences of workmen. Bakeries find them useful in locating bread routes. Milk companies study the pattern of roads and houses in planning collections and deliveries. A milk company reported that study of the map enabled it to rearrange its routes and save 80 truck-miles a week.

Rural school boards have used the county maps extensively in planning school bus routes. One county board of health spots on the map houses where there are patients with contagious diseases.

These county maps are useful in helping guests reach country places. The prospective host can draw a crayon circle around the dot on the map and mail it as a guide more easily than he can describe the road.
